

ARMY MEDICAL SERVICES RECRUITING NOW

Dental students – looking for a unique career opportunity post-graduation?

Do you want a career with excitement and adventure? Do you want to receive funding through dental school? Have you ever thought about a dental career in the British Army?

If you're currently studying to become a dentist, then you could be eligible for a bursary from the Army Medical Services (AMS). This includes annual lump sums of £10,000 per annum for up to three years before you graduate.

Following dental school, you will undertake foundation training at a military dental centre with civilian placements and a starting salary of circa £41,939. Once you've completed your dental training and, afterwards, your basic military training, you'll receive a further one-off payment of £45,000 and a salary of circa £67,000+.

Interested in finding out more? Contact Specialist Recruiter Dale:

T: 07808 011 870

E: ARTD-RG-ProfQualRecruitingTeam@mod.uk

Search Army Medical Services

ARMY
BE THE BEST